Finkeberg

Finkeberg is a charming village, with traditional chalet-style hotels, surrounded by the beautiful scenery of the Zillertal. In few words, it is a medium-sized Tyrolean village in the beautiful Zillertal Alps with a long tradition of skiing and tourism. Located within the Zillertal nature park, the village has just over 1,500 inhabitants throughout the year, but in this number there’s the Olympic champion Leonhard Stock as well as Professor Peter Habler, the first to climb Everest without an oxygen mask.

GET TO KNOW

The village is located about three kilometers southwest of Mayrhofen and 200 meters above the river Ziller on a generally sunny and gently sloping terrace in the Tuxertal area. The highest mountain in the Zillertal Alps, the Hochfeiler (3,510 m), is part of the widespread community that extends to the Italian border. In terms of skiing, Finkeberg is located in the center of the Ski and Glacierworld Zillertal 3000 ski area, which starts from the nearby Mayrhofen to the Hintertux Glacier snowfields all year round. Ski and Glacier World Zillertal 3000 is the largest unique ski region in the beautiful Austrian Ziller Valley; The Ski and Glacier World Zillertal 3000 offers a wide range of skis between 630 and 3,250 meters above sea level. However, there are trails up to 12 km from the top of the Tux glacier to the valley. Thanks to state-of-the-art snow-making facilities covering 196 hectares of slopes, ski conditions are guaranteed as long as the temperatures are sufficiently low. The mountains around Finkeberg are ideal for any kind of winter seasons lovers. Enthusiasts can walk through isolated forests and long descents over picturesque mountain huts to the peaks.
IT IS AS UNIQUE AS IT IS FULL OF VARIETY; A PLACE THAT HAS BEEN COMPLETELY CREATED FOR SPA LOVERS & SPORT ENTHUSIASTS, FAMILIES & LOVERS, GOURMETS AND FOODIES AS WELL AS HIGH DEMAND SOLO TRAVELERS. DAY AFTER DAY, THE STOCK RESORT WILL SURPRISE YOU.

Lech Am Arlberg

The mountain villages of Lech and Zürs are best-known as winter playgrounds for British skiers, including the late Princess Diana. Founded in the 14th century by émigrés from the Valais district of Switzerland, Lech am Arlberg still has its original Pfarrkirche (parish church) from that era. This archetype of a snug alpine ski village is practically joined to Oberlech, a satellite resort a little farther up the mountain.

GET TO KNOW

Lech am Arlberg is a delightful surprise for everyone visiting Switzerland and Austria. The majestic peaks, the crystal clear lakes and the quaint architecture are simply captivating. Skiers across the world know it as the premier sky resort frequented by the rich and famous like the royals of Holland and Jordan and the actor Tom Cruise. Such is the charm of this place that even the non-skiers fall for it and enjoy in the horse drawn sleigh rides, walking in the woods, visit the 14th cent. St. Nicholas Church and visit a small museum that displays the lifestyle of the medieval days. Lech stands at 1,440m; Oberlech is at 1,710m. Zürs is more fashionable, but Lech has its own claim to fame. Despite its reputation as a ski resort, Lech offers some great warm-weather activities, too. In summer, visitors come here to tour the Upper Lech Valley, which stretches for 56km to a scenic valley between the Lechtal and the Allgäu Alps.
IT IS ONE OF THE RARE FAMILY OWNED AND RUN WINTER SPORT HOTELS IN THE WORLD. SPANNING 4 GENERATIONS, IT HAS BEEN IN THE FAMILY SINCE 1451 AND RUN AS A HOTEL SINCE 1929. A STUNNING HOTEL WHERE THE SENSE OF BEING A FRIEND OF THE FAMILY IS VERY MUCH ALIVE.

Editor's Note

Winter vacation at the Aurelio Lech means to enjoy the mountain world, covered in deep snow, magnificent downhill skiing or hiking through pristine snow landscapes, fascinating pistes, cross country skiing tours, ice skating, curling, sleighing and snow shoeing are only a few of the many attractions. Around Lech and Zürs non skiers can enjoy 40 km of prepared winter hiking trails.

Aurelio Lech is luxurious but relaxed; contemporary, but firmly embedded in its Austrian roots. The interiors of Aurelio Lech are decorated with traditional touches that reflect the alpine heritage of the Vorarlberg region but it is the feeling of warmth that permeates throughout Aurelio Lech, which creates its charming, relaxed atmosphere.

Rooms and suites are individually designed respecting the alpine heritage of the Vorarlberg, whilst sympathetically and elegantly applying a contemporary focus to their furnishing and finishes. The gourmet cuisine at Restaurant Aurelio's blends traditional and modern Austrian recipes with international dishes.

Neustift im Stubaital

Already the Romans left their marks in this area. The Stubaital valley has been mentioned for the first time in 1000 AC under the name of “Stupeia”. However, Neustift im Stubaital is surrounded by majestic mountain peaks. Exactly 109 mountains tower in this area, which are more than 3.000 metres high. Neustift, located only 25 km from the Alpine city of Innsbruck, is characterised by the parish church Saint Georg.

GET TO KNOW

In Neustift im Stubaital and surroundings, there are several hiking trails, e.g. the alpine fauna educational trail, the “WildeWasserWeg” and the popular Stubai high path. The main church of Saint Georg is the second largest village church of Tyrol, features an interior with magnificent frescos. One glance only makes winter sport enthusiasts’ hearts leap for joy, as there is the largest glacier skiing area of Tyrol, which is the Stubai Glacier. From autumn on you can ski on 64 km of ski slopes, before enjoying après ski in one of the ski lodges. A total of 26 lift facilities take you on 3.210 m asl, hardly surprising that the Stubai Glacier is called “Kingdom of Snow”. In the unlikely case this skiing area might not satisfy your needs, there are also the Elferlifte Neustift skiing area in the neighbouring Fulpmes as well as the ski centre Schlick 2000 and the Serlesbahnen Mieders skiing areas.

Sölden

It may be synonymous with snow-capped mountains and winter sports but Austria isn’t just for skiing. Sölden is located in western Austria, within the state of Tyrol. It’s a popular skiing resort in the winter and is home to the country’s second highest mountain, Wildspitze, which stands at over 3,658 mt. The town itself is over 1,220 mt above sea level and is about an hour’s drive from Innsbruck Airport. Its main claim to fame last year is that a large portion of the James Bond film Spectre was shot there.

GET TO KNOW

Sölden has got even two glaciers to offer, which are the Rettenbach and Tiefenbach glaciers. The skiing region at the glaciers, covering an area of about 20 sqkm, is the largest skiable glacial area of Austria. Furthermore Sölden is the only skiing region that has to offer three skiable peaks that are more than 3,000 metres high, which are the Gaislachkogel (3,058 mt), the Tiefenbachkogel (3,250 mt) and the Schwarze Schneid (3,367 mt). They are known as the “BIG 3”. Get your walking boots on and get outside! Set off early and go hiking in the mountains surrounding the valley, stopping off at any number of Alpine inns to refuel. The views across the valley are unrivalled, be sure to check out the heart shaped lake. If you don’t like hiking, you can hop on a mountain lift and grab an authentic Austrian breakfast at an Alpine inn before having a go at a spot of mountain biking on the specially designed trails. A little way out of town you’ll find Area 47 Adventure Park, home to the Flying Fox and Mega Swing, a high ropes climbing course and a new wake boarding facility for any snowboarders looking for a summer fix.
